NAPS and Self Help get jump on shore cleanup

BY LISA RAMA

NAVSTA Public Affairs Officer

Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport may have missed its annual clean-up/tree planting on Earth Day last month because of the Nor'easter that ripped through the area. The weather was a perfect excuse to delay a base-wide cleanup and expand the scope of the project to include some long-overdue heavy labor.

The clean-up took place this week, as the installation was "divided" into 10 shoreline areas. But the Naval Academy Prep School and a crew from NAVSTA Self-Help got a jump on the work last week.

Before the NAPS Class of 2007 graduated last Friday, the young men and women chipped in to clean up around Coddington Point on May 14 and 15.

Scott Mello, Naval Station Newport Solid Waste and Recycling manager, along with a team from NAVSTA Self Help, a backhoe, and a dump truck removed 9.8 tons (19,600 pounds) of driftwood and debris from Coddington Cove beach along Whipple Street on May

After a winter of southerly winds the shoreline along Coddington Cove, opposite the Bayside mini-mart, is littered with rubbish, debris and driftwood.

14 and 15.

The Self Help crew was led by Chief Builder Mike Zangli, who was assisted by Petty Officers 2nd Class Scott Estes, Guido Manzano and Jason Oliver.

The Base Support Vehicle and Equipment Branch supplied the truck and Mello supplied the Solid Waste Recycling Program's backhoe and had the debris trucked away from the facility after the cleanup.

"With the contribution of personnel assets and a bit of sweat, we can significantly improve the base appearance and show the Navy's continued environmental stewardship of Narragansett Bay," said Lt. Walter Sibley, Assistant Public Works Officer.

Four Navy or Marine Corps officers from Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport will participate in annual Memorial Day ceremonies or parades in Newport, Portsmouth, and Fall River, Mass., on Monday, Memorial Day.

Lt. Cmdr. Charles H. Maher, a student at the Naval War College, will be the guest speaker at the main ceremony outside Newport City Hall at noon.

Maher, a Fullbright Scholar, is a submariner and has served aboard the fast attack submarines USS Bergall, USS Memphis and USS Tucson.

Containers will be available at the City Hall ceremony for the deposit of worn, faded or unserviceable U.S. flags. These flags will be retired and properly disposed of at an appropriate flag retirement ceremony to be held at a later date.

in Grenada and Beirut.

— Newport VFW Post will lead ceremonies at 11 a.m. at Storer Park at the Goat Island Causeway, Newport, where flowers will be laid at the water's edge.

Meanwhile, Capt. Charles A. Hautau, Commanding Officer, Naval Academy Preparatory School, will speak at ceremonies, also at 11 a.m., at Portsmouth VFW Post on Anthony Road. Capt. Hautau is a 1978 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and former Navy pilot.

Always room for improvement

"A new idea is first condemned as ridiculous, and then dismissed as trivial, until finally it becomes what everybody knows."
—William James

One of the great war films of all time was made in the 1950's, Away All Boats, starred Jeff Chandler. It chronicles the adventures of a fictional APA (Amphibious Assault Ship, forerunner of today's LHA's), USS Belina, fighting its way across the Pacific.

The ship's skipper, Capt. Jebediah Hawkes, is a seasoned veteran, a good guy, but unpopular with the crew. They don't understand his intentions and think he's aloof. In fact, his policies are genuinely innovative, and ultimately every one of them saves the ship from disaster.

Chaplain Schranz

Then comes the Battle of Okinawa. Belinda is struck by kamikazes. Many Sailors are lost and the ship is left dead in the water, no propulsion, with large gaping holes below the water-line. Capt. Hawkes is mortally wounded and unconscious.

The crew must figure out what to do on its own. They start to argue: one says we should do this, the other says, you're crazy, we must do

Walk-in legal aid curtailed

The staff at Naval Legal Service Office (NLSO) at Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport, once staffed with 18 attorneys, eight legalmen and five civilians, has gradually been reduced to a branch office of one attorney and one civilian.

Because of these staff reductions, legal assistance and defense are no longer available on a walk-in basis.

However, powers of attorney and notaries are still available on a walk-in basis during business hours, Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Appointments for legal assistance are available for Monday and Wednesday afternoons and Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Additional appointments can be made with Reserve attorneys for Tuesday and Thursday evenings and drill weekends.

To prepare a will, a worksheet will need to be completed prior to an appointment to see the attorney. Worksheets are available on the NLSO quarterdeck any time during working hours.

Active duty and retired service members and their immediate family members are eligible to receive free legal assistance at the NLSO.

In addition to powers of attorney, notaries and wills, the NLSO attorney can provide advice on a wide variety of issues, including consumer protection, divorce, landlord/tenant issues and others. Regardless of your circumstances, it doesn't cost anything to ask.

NLSO cannot provide advice over the telephone, represent service-members in civilian court, or offer advice on private business enterprises.

Even at its reduced size, the NLSO will continue to provide quality legal services.

For more information or to schedule an appointment, call 841-3766 extension 200.

Pirates on prowl

If you liked the movie, Pirates of the Caribbean, then you'll like the Pirate Fest at Brick Market Place and other locations in Newport on Saturday, May 26, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Newport was also a major center of pirate activity during the late 17th and early 18th centuries. So many pirates used Newport as their base of operations that the London Board of Trade made an official complaint to the English government.

The most famous pirate who made Newport his base was Thomas Tew. Tew was very popular with the locals, after one of his pirating voyages, it was reported that almost the whole town came out to greet him.

Pirate Fest will offer a downtown treasure hunt, boat cruises, book signings, historical reenactments, sea chantey singers, craft workshops, costume contests, family pirate school, Thomas Tew Thieves Market, and Cap'n Nick's Newport Pirate Walk.

NWC Juniors drink from Cup

CNC&S takes President's Cup crown

By MCC(SCW) G. FRAZHO
NWC Public Affairs Staff

With recent great weather and spirit among competitors on four teams, the last five events of the Naval War College (NWC) President's Cup competition were completed May 11 for academic year 2006-07.

This year's winners were the Juniors in the College of Naval Command & Staff (NC&S), who swept the competition with 74 points.

Second place was hotly contested between the Seniors in the College of Naval Warfare (CNW) and the NWC Staff & Faculty members, who traded positions several times over the past year. The Seniors pulled ahead and won second place with 66 points, and Staff & Faculty took third at 64.

The Navy Warfare Development Command (NWDC) proved dominant in several events and a determined contender throughout the year, but finished at 50 points in fourth place.

"President's Cup is a triennial interscholastic sports competition," said Navy Lt. Graham Plaster, assistant dean of students and athletic coordinator for the President's Cup. "It's the senior students, junior students, Navy Warfare Development Command (NWDC) and War College Staff and Faculty in a competition to build esprit de corps and also to promote health and athleticism among War College personnel."

Plaster said the President's Cup standings have been hotly contested for several years. Although the juniors have won three of the last four competitions, the scores have been close and have usually come down to the final events.

"Friday, (May 11) was the culmination," said Army Major Jeth Rey, the 5K running coach who won the race. "The seniors were leading 46-42 going into the last trimester, then the juniors won three of five events. The juniors took the 5K run, swimming and golf. The seniors took polo and tennis."

Rey was on the winning team in both the running and swimming events. For him, as well as many other students, competing in the President's Cup is a good way to stay focused and stay in shape for events that are their forte.

"Most of the coaches for these sports were either competitive in college or played at a semi-professional level at some point," said Rey, a member of the junior class in the College of Naval Command and Staff and a former member of the Miami Running Club.

"The tennis coach was a semi-pro player, and three guys from the swim team used to swim for West Point, Notre Dame and the Naval Academy."

As the students have specialties or previous experience in certain sports, so too is each trimester allocated certain competitions. "In the fall, it's sailing, golf, soccer and softball," said Plaster, a former member of the Naval Academy Sailing

Team. "In the winter, you have basketball, volleyball, bowling and racquetball."

All players vie for the honor of hoisting the President's Cup, which is kept in a special trophy case at the Naval War College and awarded as part of the annual awards ceremony, held the day prior to graduation. This year, the Cup will be presented on June 14.

"It was very successful," said Plaster of the spring evolution. "Overall, I've had a lot of positive comments. The commissioners [event organizers] really stepped up and did a great job. I owe it to them for making it happen."

Health Care Council open to beneficiaries

Naval Health Clinic New England, Newport, will hold their quarterly Health Care Consumer Council (HCCC) meeting on June 5 at 1 p.m. in the Command Conference room, second floor of Building 43.

Anticipated topics to be discussed at this meeting are:

- TRICARE mail order pharmacy
- Laboratory services
- Staff/deployments
- Inpatient services at Newport Hospital

Anyone with questions may be directed to Ms. Linda Dokken 841-2125 or Linda.dokken@nhcne.med.navy.mil.

Pharmacy and Sick Call hours change

To better serve the beneficiaries when staffing is critical because of deployment requirements and increased operational tempo, the hours of the Pharmacy and Sick Call at the Naval Health Clinic New England, Newport, are being modified.

Effective last Monday, the Pharmacy is open Monday to Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. for all services, and 4:30 to 6 p.m. for refill pickups and new prescriptions for clinic patients only.

On Saturday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., Pharmacy services will be for refill pickup and new prescriptions for clinic patients only.

Refill pickup will now require five working days because of a short term critical staffing shortage.

As an alternative, NHCNE suggests the TRICARE Mail Order Pharmacy (TMOP) which is very easy to use and for a minimal co-pay ($3 for generics and $9 for brand names) a recipient can get medications mailed to their door.

In addition, Sick Call hours will change June 1 to 7:30 to 9:30 a.m.

This will align with the Pharmacy opening at 8 a.m. and keep services running efficiently.

Anyone with questions may call 841-2866.

Outdoor Recreation

Admiral asks Sailors to pack safety into weekend outings

Adm. Gary Roughead, Commander, U.S. Fleet Forces Command, has released a message to all hands in the fleet to incorporate safety into their Memorial Day weekend as the "Critical Days of Summer" are upon us.

"As we prepare to observe Memorial Day, I ask that you reflect on the sacrifices made by those who serve and have served throughout our nation's history," he said. "This truly is a day of reflection, and upon reflection, we appreciate that we are unique as a people and as a nation because of our freedom, but know that freedom comes at a very high price.

"Our nation has survived and prospered only because of the selfless sacrifice of millions of Americans who were willing to serve and sacrifice for our ideals.

"I thank you for your service," he said.

Adm. Roughead said Memorial Day is also the beginning of the highest risk period of the year for our Navy family, known as the "Critical Days of Summer," when our non-operational fatality rates typically increase.

Warfighting and readiness are not achievable without the safety and well-being of our people. Last year, 20 shipmates lost their lives during the critical days of summer.

Roughead

Most involved motor vehicle accidents; however, others were the result of boating, swimming and heat stress.

He said leadership, at all levels, must be proactive to prevent these tragic, senseless losses. Use risk management and "the Critical Days of Summer" resources available on the Naval Safety Centers Website at www.safetycenter.navy.mil as you protect those who defend our nation.

"Our collective commitment and our measure of effectiveness must be no non-operational losses. Think about what you, your family, your friends and shipmates are doing, and do what you must to realize that outcome," he said.

Navy-wide news

Midshipmen complete 'sea trials' of various 'challenging scenarios'

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (NNS) — The U.S. Naval Academy Class of 2010 completed the daylong rite of passage known as Sea Trials on May 15.

Sea Trials, which begin well before dawn, consists of six phases lasting approximately an hour and a half each. During these phases, the freshmen, or "plebes," are tested physically and mentally in a variety of challenging scenarios.

"It is a culminating point of a plebe's year," said Lt. Kurt Parsons, 9th Company officer and Sea Trials officer representative. "It brings them together in a trying situation, builds teamwork and camaraderie, and instills pride in themselves and the institution."

Under the supervision of upperclassmen, senior enlisted leaders and company officers, the midshipmen navigated challenging obstacle courses, confronted realistic damage control scenarios, and motivated each other through long-distance runs. Squads of midshipmen also tackled riverine training, Zodiac boat drills, and endurance courses.

More than 1,000 plebes participated in the capstone event, modeled after the Navy's "Battle Stations" and Marine Corps' "Crucible."

Sea Trials was the 1998 brainchild of former Naval Academy Superintendent Adm. Charles R. Larson.

Navy captain, Marine son meet in Iraq after 16 months

COMBAT OUTPOST RAWA, Iraq (NNS) — While on a site survey mission visiting Sailors and contractors in the Al Anbar region of Iraq on April 25, Capt. Garry Mace saw his son, Marine Lance Cpl. Joshua Mace, for the first time in more than 16 months.

Mace, commander of the Baghdad-based Joint Crew Composite Squadron (JCCS) 1 and his son, a Marine scout assigned to the 1st Light Armored Reconnaissance Battalion at Rawa, hadn't seen each other since December 2005 due to conflicting deployment schedules.

The younger Mace joined the Marine Corps in March 2004 while his father served in the Navy as an F/A-18 fighter pilot.

"It was great seeing Josh," said Mace senior. "The last time I saw him was Christmas 2005 in Japan. I really missed him and being able to see him healthy and in such great spirits takes the anxiety out of knowing he's here in Iraq."

Adm. Roughead takes command of Fleet Forces

NORFOLK (NNS) — Adm. Gary Roughead relieved Adm. John B. Nathman as Commander U.S. Fleet Forces Command (FFC) during a change of command ceremony held aboard USS Enterprise (CVN 65) at Naval Station Norfolk on May 17.

Chief of Naval Operations Adm. Mike Mullen spoke of Nathman's distinguished career, and praised his accomplishments during his tenure at FFC, commending his focus on war fighting, force posture, and building regional relationships.

"In all the time I have known John, he is most known for his passion for the Navy. A passion so deep, it was contagious," Mullen said.

Nathman, a naval aviator and a 1970 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, assumed command of U.S. Fleet Forces Command in February 2005. In his two-year tenure, he led the command through a period of dramatic change, focusing on his strategic focus areas of operational readiness, operational effectiveness and operational primacy.

"The reason why the Navy is performing so well today, in every operational commitment around the world, is due to the leadership that John Nathman provided," Mullen said. "He has done so much for so many and set in place so many facets of what the Navy is and will be."

that!
Meanwhile, more kamikazes are headed their way...
Capt. Hawkes hears the arguing through an open porthole in his stateroom, and with his last ounce of strength drags himself off the bed (rack), to the bridge. He cries out to the startled officers with his final breath: "The children lead the mother! THE CHILDREN LEAD THE MOTHER!"
Then he collapses and dies.
The crew tries to figure out what he meant, and then they realize: Capt. Hawkes was telling them to lower the landing craft into the water and have them tow the ship to safe waters!
This they quickly did and thus saved the ship—and their lives. Even his critics had to admit they will be able to go home only because of their skipper.
Capt. Hawkes was at first shunned by the crew because they couldn't understand his novel way of doing business. Today we'd call him an "out-of-the-box thinker." We should always be on the lookout for new and better ways of doing things, even the things we've done hundreds of times before.
Much of humanity's progress, in fact, is a result of people who were not satisfied with the status quo and found novel and better ways to improve life for everyone.
"Keep sound wisdom and discretion; so shall they be life unto thy soul..."
— PROVERBS
God bless and stay great!
